SERVING THE MONTEREY PENINSULA INCLUDING FORT ORD

Vol. 28, No. 2, Wed., December 26, 1973 | 510 Broadway Seaside, Calif. 93955 Area Code 408: 394-6632 | 10 cents per copy; $5.00 per year by mail

MPC Mail Spring Registration Begins Tomorrow

Mail registration for more than 240 evening and weekend classes in the spring 1974 semester at Monterey Peninsula College will begin on Wednesday, Dec. 26 and the deadline for applications is Jan. 18, 1974.

Registration forms and complete "Schedule of Classes" will be found available in MPC's Community Education Times which is in the mail to over 43,000 homes on the Monterey Peninsula. Forms are also available by calling the college.

Registration in the Evening Division Profram last Fall jumped 28 per cent to 3,500 students, according to Dr. Keith Merrill, Dean of Community Education. "This was one of the highest enrollments throughout the 101 campus California Community College system," he said.

The enrollment picture at MPC is much brighter than at most other colleges which are making small gains or loosing students. However, Dr. Merrill is not predicting another surge for the spring semester.

Courses offered in the evening are taken from all the liberal arts and sciences and the technical vocational fields which are offered in the regular day program and many special courses which are only offered in the evening division.

The college has expanded its off-campus programs even more for the spring with courses being taught in Monterey, Seaside, Pacific Grove, Carmel Valley and Big Sur.

Also expanded is the "weekend college" concept in which 36 classes are being offered on Friday nights and Saturday mornings. Dr. Merrill explained that with each new semester there has been a growing number of adult students who have returned to the classroom for more general education, occupational upgrading or self-enlightenment.

With classroom space being used at near capacity, the college has had to offer the Friday and Saturday courses. He added that these classes have had successful enrollments in past semesters because they have met the needs for the working adults.

Registration

The MPC Times contains the Evening Division Schedule of Classes and a registration form which must be postmarked by Jan. 18 in order that it be accepted by the registration office. Late forms will be returned to the student who will mave to attend the on-campus registration for evening classes on Jan. 30-31.

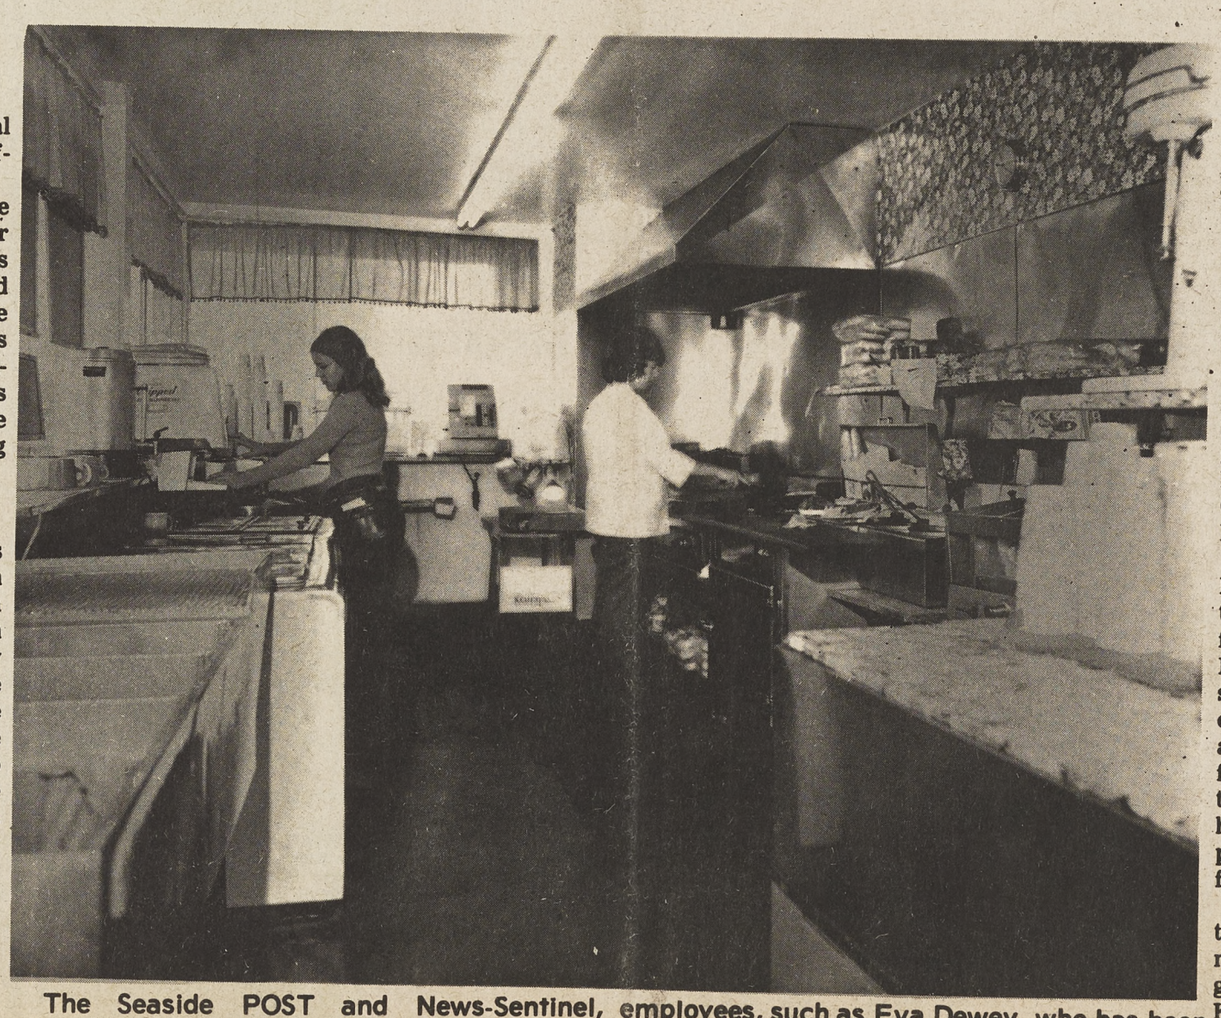
Late registration for evening classes will be held through the second class meeting in conjunction with the instructor and the registration desk in the Student Personnel Services Building.

Mrs. Louise White, MPC registrar, said the registration form contains residency requirements and must be answered completely if it is to be accepted. Incomplete forms cannot be approved and will be returned to the applicants.

The registration fees are unchanged from last year. Students who are 21 years and older and carrying less than 10 class hours per week must pay an adult fee of $13. Non-residents must pay a $27 per unit tuition fee and all students will be charged the $5 building use fee. The building fee does not apply to students who are taking off-campus classes, Mrs. White said.

New evening students do not need to have transcripts sent to the college unless the course will be used eventually to earn associate in arts or science degrees.

BUSINESS OF THE WEEK



The Seaside POST and News-Sentinel, visited Benny's A&W Root Beer Drive-In, 1830 Fremont Blvd., Seaside. Benny's A&W Root Beer is closed now for the holidays and will be closed until after January 1, but if you are in the mood for, and have a taste for a delicious original tasting hamburger, we highly recommend Benny's. Surrounded with lovely loyal employees, such as Eva Dewey, who has been cooking at Benny's for many years, and Meliss Martino. The customers receive fast and courteous service, which causes them to return, time after time. Benny's has become a land mark in Seaside, and he never meets a stranger which has caused his fame to spand from one end of the Peninsula to the other.

Board Of Equalization Urges Review Of Welfare Exemptions

The welfare exemption (for certain nonprofit hospital, religious, and charitable properties) for the 1973-74 fiscal year is resulting in the exemption from property taxation of real and personal property having a market value of $3.85-billion which, if taxable, would produce $107.3-million of revenue for the use of local government.

So declared State Board of Equalization Vice-chairman George R. Reilly in urging a resolution asking the State Legislature to undertake a review of the welfare exemption. Board members William M. Bennett, John W. Lynch and Richard Nevins joined Reilly in approving the motion unanimously.

The Board's resolution notes that "the value of property exempted has increased over the period of the last ten years at an annual rate of 18.4 percent, while the value of all property subject to ad valorem assessment has increased at an annual rate of only 9.8 percent." This is without decrease for homeowner's and business inventory exemptions enacted during this ten-year period.

This increase was attributed to "the tendency of the courts to interpret the language of the welfare exemption very liberally, so that certain nonprofit activities that would have been considered as less than charitable when the people approved the 1944 amendment to the Constitution are now held to qualify some property for exemption..."

Also, "certain limited uses of property that would have originally been considered as less than an active use of property for religious, hospital or charitable purposes have been held to qualify other property for exemption."

Faced with these court decisions, the State Board of Equalization and the county assessors "find it impossible to administer the welfare exemption according to the original dictates of the people."

The resolution notes that with the annual increase in the property tax burden upon the property owners of the state, "a restructuring of the welfare exemption is appropriate and necessary to assure an equitable distribution of the tax burdens of the state."

The Legislature was asked by the Board to undertake:

* A review of the history of the welfare exemption, including the ballot arguments made to the people of the State and the appellate decisions of the California Courts throughout the existence of the exemption.

City Holds OpenHouse

Open house was held at the Seaside City Hall Friday, December 21. Mayor B.J. Dolan, Jr., assisted by Vice-Mayor Stephen Ross, presented awards to the winners in the 1973 Seaside Mayor's Christmas Decoration Contest. Mayor Dolan said, "The contest is a special effort to reward, in a small way, the people who decorate our city at Christmas."

The Mayor's Trophy for first place in the best commercial entry went to Broadway Florest & Emporium, 844 Broadway. This is the second consecutive year this business has won this honor. Every moving part in the Broadway Florest's Christmas display was powered with batteries, in keeping with the City's wishes to conserve energy.

Second prize in the commercial entry was won by Walter's Fashions for Men, 1884 Fremont. The Honorable Mention Certificate was presented by Mr. Ross and accepted by Billie Barton.

Prizes in the residential contest went to Samuel L. Pry, First Prize of $50; Peter J. Scardina, Second Prize of $25; and Joseph M. Ostendorf, Third Prize of $15.

King Girls See Nutcracker In S F

Recently, under the auspices of the King Junior High Cultural Enrichment program for girls, sixty-one students from King Junior High School boarded a bus to San Francisco to see the traditional holiday performance of the Nutcracker Ballet performed by the San Francisco Ballet Company. The King Junior High Cultrual Enrichment program for girls was developed by Principal Bill DeBerry and Counseling Aide, Betty Mann.

The performance of the Nutcracker Ballet proved to be a moving experience for the entire group. Mrs. Mann said, "It just goes to show you that many of our children have been labeled as unappreciative of the fine arts but this is not the truth as a majority of them have never had the opportunity to see a performance such as this."

Nine young ladies from the King Cultural Enrichment program were the guests of Mrs. Charlie Knight, Director of the Office of Special Projects, M.P.U.S.D., at the Ebany Fashion Fair at the Sunset Auditorium in Carmel. Mrs. Knight donated the tickets as an incentive to the young ladies who have shown a marked improvement while in the program.

The Cultural Enrichment program at King was developed in hopes of providing young ladies with the knowledge of proper social etiquette, self-awareness, poise, self-esteem and also to expose them to the fine arts. The goals of the program are to produce young ladies who will not be caught in the syndrome of the drop-out or troublemaker but be more able to adjust to the daily demands of living in the community.

The program is funded by the M.P.U.S.D. under the direction of Dr. Henry Hutchins, the City of Seaside and the Parks & Recreation Department under the direction of Cleave Williams. Coordinators of the program are Mrs. Betty Mann, Cultural Enrichment Coordinator; Miss Betty Sapp, Dance Director; Mrs. Mary Burden, Sewing Instructor; and Miss Sherry Young, Modeling and Grooming Instructor.

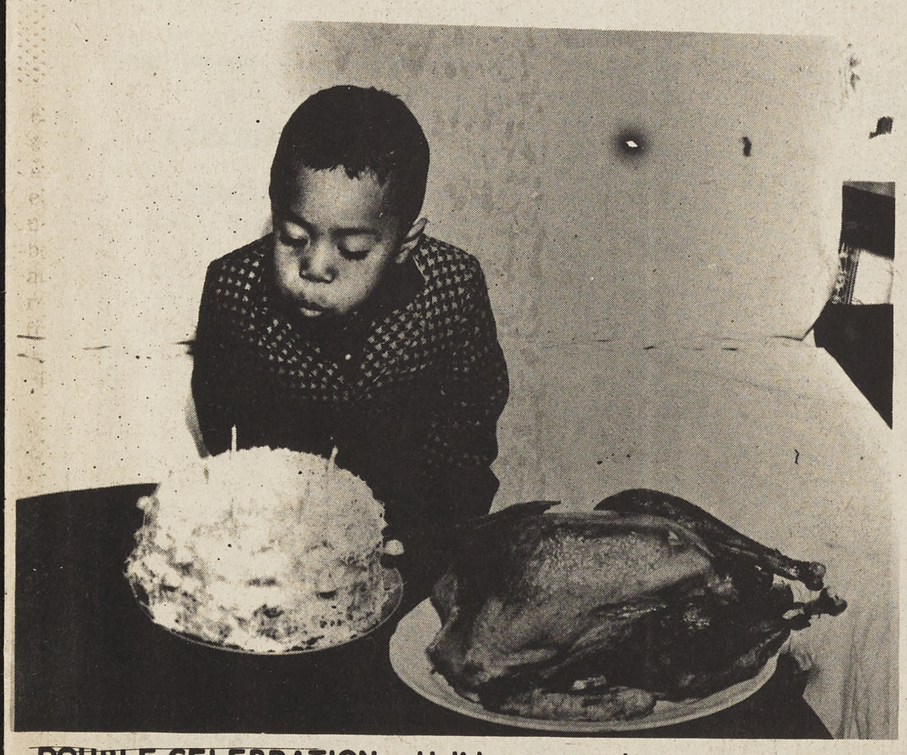
Youngsters at Seaside's Juan Cabrillo School are at the half-way point in their first year of year-round school attendance.

Principal Tom Bridges noted that the school will return to classes on Jan. 7, 1974.

Bridges said about 90 youngsters attended one week of "recess school" during the week of Dec. 17-21. Because the school is operating all year on a four-quarter system, week-long recess schools are held during the quarter breaks to take the place of summer school.

Cabrillo began its year-round operation last July 18. The first quarter break was held from September 24 to October 12. When the students return from the Christmas break they will attend classes until the Easter recess, which is scheduled from March 18 to April 12. The final quarter will run from April 15 to June 13.



DOUBLE CELEBRATION -- Holiday season has special meaning for Christopher Eisenhower Dansby because Chris was born on Christmas Day. So, while the family has Christmas dinner, Chris blows out candles on his birthday cake! Chris is now 19 and a senior at Seaside High School, where he played on varsity football team. He is also quite talented on guitar. Hope you had a Merry Christmas and Happy Birthday Chris.

Your Mayor Reports

by Joe Dolan

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

This year, on or about December 13, 1973, the Executive Officer of the California Regional Water Quality Control Board -- Central Coast Region -- made some strong accusations! The Executive Officer, Mr. Kenneth Jones, very emphatically stated that the Monterey Peninsula Water Pollution Control Agency has been "sitting on its hands for over one year, should have anticipated changes, and at least commenced construction of a feeder sewer line between Pacific Grove and Monterey". There were other equally asinine statements that tend to discredit and undermine the sincere efforts of the elected officials of the Monterey Peninsula.

To set the record straight. Pacific Grove, Monterey, and the Seaside County Sanitation District have each spent over $250,000 (a total in excess of $750,000) to pay for studies, plans and oceanographic surveys in support of a STATE mandated plan which encompassed an outfall at Point Pinos! In November, 1972, the State changed its position regarding a Point Pinos outfall and recommended that the Monterey Peninsula Water Pollution Control Agency call an immediate halt to the Point Pinos Outfall Plan. Concurrently, the Peninsula was also advised that the AMBAG Plan/Concept, when finally adopted by the State, would be the only PLAN that would be approved for funding by the STATE.

At this point we must all be concerned about unconscionable, unethical, irresponsible, unprofessional remarks that will halt instead of promote progress. A NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING has been announced by the State for January 11, 1974, at 10:00 in the City Council Rotunda, City Hall, 200 Lincoln Avenue, Salinas. The hearing will be a "Review and Revision, Water Quality Control Plan (Interim), Central Coastal Basin. A portion of the plan to be discussed is as follows:

"Wastewater from Pacific Grove will be transported to the existing Monterey plant for treatment. Effluent from existing plants at Monterey, Seaside, and Fort Ord will be collected in a common transmission line and transported north to the central portion of Monterey Bay near the Salinas River. Ultimately, a mid-bay regional treatment plant will be constructed which may serve the Monterey Peninsula as well as northern Monterey County. Disposal options available include consolidation with effluent from the existing Salinas plant for disposal either through an outfall to the Bay or to the Salinas River, or for reclamation and reuse for irrigation in the Castroville area. The initial phases of a consolidated project are scheduled for completion in 1976. Local reclamation projects could take a portion of sewage produced on the Peninsula and provide a source of water to irrigate some of the numerous golf courses located nearby or be injected in the ground waterbasin near Seaside."

At some point the State must put in writing that it will reimburse Seaside's taxpayers the $250,000 expended for the State terminated Point Pinos Plans which are costing each of us at the rate of $.49 a hundred on current tax bills!

Black Astrophysicist Invents Unique Camera For Skylab

The only major new scientific instrument meriting enough priority to accompany the final Skylab crew into Earth orbit was a unique camera invented by a Black astrophysicist.

The quality and capability of the instrument had been proven before, in NASA's Apollo Program, when the camera had the Moon as its tripod base.

The camera's 34-year-old inventor is Dr. George R. Carruthers of the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C. He joined NRL in 1964, the year he received his Ph.D in physics at the University of Illinois.

The modest, soft-spoken Dr. Carruthers was raised on Chicago's South Side and attended Englewood High School in Chicago before going on to the University of Illinois. The U. of I. graduate received his B.S. degree in physics there in 1961 and his M.S. degree in 1962. While a graduate student, Dr. Carruthers was a research and teaching assistant at the university.

The Carruthers instrument on Skylab is known as the Far Ultraviolet Electronographic Camera and it is designated as Skylab Experiment S201. It is a modified version of the camera left on the Moon by the Apollo 16 crew last year.

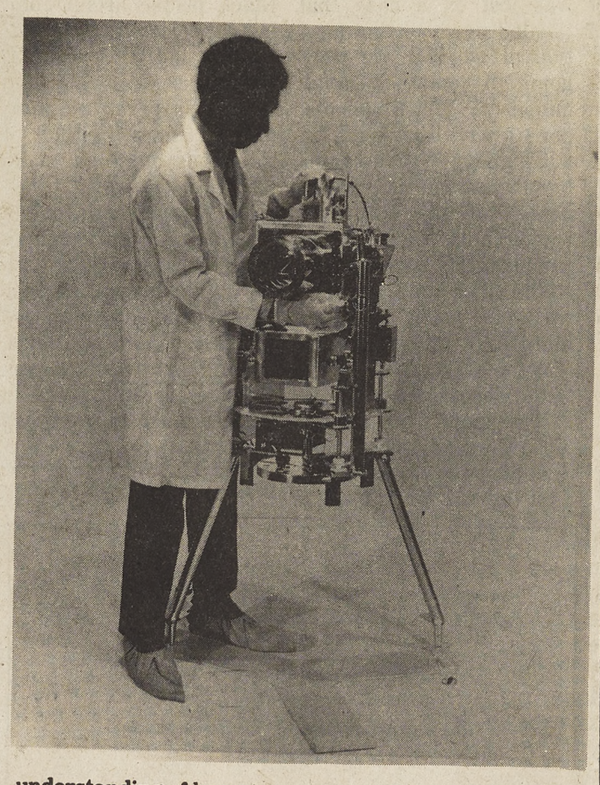
The camera made science history when it became the first space observatory on the Moon. It recorded the ultraviolet spectrum of distant stars and, for the first time, photographed the bands of atomic hydrogen that surround the Earth about 50,000 miles out in space.

The S201 was the only instrument available to NASA by Skylab 4 lunch time that could obtain images of the Comet Kohoutek in the 1050-1600 Angstrom wave-length range that includes the light given off by atomic hydrogen.

The Comet Kohoutek, discovered speeding toward the Sun last May, is of major interest to scientists throughout the world. It appears to be a new comet, one that has not previously approached our Sun, and comet experts are excited by the prospects of obtaining considerable new knowledge about these infrequent visitors.

When Kohoutek makes its closest approach to the Sun, late this month and early in January, Dr. Carruthers' camera will be used by the Skylab astronauts to photograph the comet's hydrogen halo, that may be millions of kilometers in diameter.

Dr. Carruthers is the recipient of several awards by both NRL and NASA for his outstanding accomplishments. Since 1964 the astrophysicist has been busily advancing far ultraviolet spectroscopy and photometry and developing electronic imaging devices. He developed a rocket-borne telescope for observing ultraviolet star radiation. It is expected that the Carruthers technique for photography of hydrogen molecules in space will advance man's understanding of how stars are born.



The inventor-scientist is a member of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, the American Astronomical Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the Research Society of America.

Melvin And Blue Notes' Album Indicates Some Changes Made

Fans of Harold Melvin and The Blue Notes -- and there are quite a few these days -- will notice a change in presentation on their latest album, Black and Blue.

Noted in the past for singing slow, soulful ballads, Melvin and his Blue Notes surprise fans with a catchy up-tempo tune that was released from the album as a single called The Love I Lost.

Aside from the best-selling hit single, the rest of the album also shows some change from the Blue Notes' previous efforts. The mood is mellower and the strong lead voice of Theodore Pendergrass has been toned down.

Seated in his comfortable chair in his Philadelphia office, Melvin, who formed the base for what is now the Blue Notes some 18 years ago and who serves as their spokesman and manager, explained why the mood has changed.

"We just wanted to stretch out a little on this album," he said. "And I wanted to test some of my ideas out. So I sat down with Gamble and Huff. We put all of our ideas together and Black and Blue was what we came up with."

Gamble and Huff are two creative souls from Philadelphia International Records who have taken the record world by storm with their "Philadelphia sound."

In regard to toning down the lead singer, Melvin indicated that it was an attempt to get the most out of his voice and to try to save it for much longer use.

Benefits For Working Women Explained

The State of California's position on payment of disability insurance benefits to working women who leave work temporarily because of pregnancy, was explained recently by Dwight Geduldig, Director of the Department of Human Resources Development.

"The State is paying benefits to pregnant women covered by the disability insurance program where there's medical evidence of disabling abnormal pregnancy conditions, or of another medical condition that becomes disabling because of the pregnancy," Geduldig said.

"Disability insurance claims of this kind may be filed for days of disability occurring on or after July 5, 1973," he said. "That is the date when the California District Court of Appeals ruling became final, that abnormal pregnancies are disabilities.

"But we are not at this time paying benefits for time off for normal pregnancies, or voluntary termination of such pregnancies," Geduldig said. "We're awaiting a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court on that matter and the Court has stayed the Department's obligation to pay such benefits until it rules on the case.

"The appeal is based on a U.S. District Court ruling made last June. That court held that benefits are payable to covered workers in connection with all medical problems of pregnancy on the basis of equal protection of the laws to women under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution," he said.

Geduldig emphasized, however, that although no benefits can be paid pending final decision of the Supreme court, pregnant women covered by the disability insurance program should file a claim promptly, whenever they are unable to perform their regular work due, to a medical problem related to a normal pregnancy. This will protect their future rights to these benefits if the Court rules that benefits must be paid for such conditions.

"And, just like any other disability claim, benefits for time off because of a pregnancy will depend on certification by a doctor that the applicant is medically disabled," Geduldig added.

"The same kind of documentation is needed on severity, and medical justification for the duration of the disability in claims involving pregnancy as in other conditions."

Specific questions about eligibility to file such pregnancy claims can be answered by HRD staff in disability insurance offices throughout the State, Geduldig said.

The purpose of the disability insurance program is to compensate covered workers, in part, for wages lost primarily because of short term nonoccupational illness or injury. Benefits, which range from $25 to $105 weekly, include an amount for number of days disabled.

There is an additional benefit for days of confinement in a hospital or, in certain circumstances, a nursing home. The program is financed entirely by California workers through a payroll tax on earnings.

ONE SURVIVES

Of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, only one -- the Pyramids of Egypt -- survives today. The others are the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the Statue of Zeus at Olympia, the Temple of Artemis at Ephesus, the Mausoleum at Halicarnassus, the Colossus at Rhodes and the Pharos Lighthouse at Alexandria.

VA TIPS

A stronger voice for hospital directors in the Veterans Administration central office is assured by a sweeping reorganization of the VA's Department of Medicine and Surgery.

We had a bankwarming last week.

And we haven't cooled off yet.

In fact, things are just starting to get hot.

We're really proud of our spacious new banking facilities and we'd like to show them off. Things like Red Carpet Service, night depository, safe deposit facilities, walk-up and drive-up windows with extended hours, and free customer parking.

Stop by and see for yourself. The opening party may be over, but the warm welcome still remains.

Black Self-Determinationists Win Important Court Battle

Members of the Black Humanist Fellowship are celebrating a victory in a legal case which challenged their right to be known by the name of their choice. They consider the court's decision historic because the case had relevance to the question of Black self-determination and the question of religious freedom.

The Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania recently denied every charge of a complaint against the Black Humanist Fellowship and two of its officers, Richard L. Traylor of Philadelphia and Harold Wilson of Oakland, California.

The complaint was entered by Benjamin F. Scott of Chicago, Illinois on behalf of those persons who opposed the changing of the name of the Black Unitarian Universalist Caucus (BUUC) to the Black Humanist Fellowship (BHF), which was done by a vote of the BUUC membership at its Sixth Annual Meeting last February. Scott charged Messrs. Wilson and Traylor with disregarding the constitution and holding an illegal Annual Meeting, in order to gain control of several affiliated corporations and the assets associated with them. He also charged them with jeopardizing the assets and properties of these corporations, endangering potential contributions, abrogating the concepts upon which BUUC was formed and doing irreparable harm to members of the Unitarian Universalist Movement. However, the honorable Judge Maurice Sporkin, who presided over the trial (which extended over a month and a half with fourteen days of trial proceedings) ruled against all of these charges, and in so doing affirmed the legality of the Annual Meeting and has allowed the use of the new name - Black Humanist Fellowship.

The primary point of the order issued on December 10, 1973 reads as follows: "The prayer of plaintiffs, Black Unitarian Universalist Caucus, Inc., Unitarian Universalist Black Affairs Council, Inc., Black Affairs Council Investment Corporation, and BASIC Venture Capital Corporation, seeking to enjoin defendants Richard L. Traylor, Harold Wilson and Black Humanist Fellowship, from using, in any manner whatsoever, the name, designation or words, "Black Humanist Fellowship" as successor to or as related to the Black Unitarian-Universalist Caucus, Inc. is denied and defendants shall be permitted to use the name, designation or words "Black Humanist Fellowship" as an amended appellation for the Black Unitarian Universalist Caucus, Inc. pursuant to the prior lawful adoption of such amended name at its annual convention held on February 23, 24, 1973."

Mr. Wilson is the General Chairman of BHF, and a member of the boards of trustees of BAC and BIC; he was also Chairman of the Black Unitarian Universalist Caucus. He hailed the decision through a statement made from his office at the University of California at Berkeley. Mr. Wilson noted the historical significance of BUUC as one of the original and the most successful of the Black caucus movements in predominantly white denominations, and explained how the change of name to BHF reflected the need to move beyond the inherent limitations of a caucus. He said that the change has already aided in the expansion of the constituent body and the firming up of its philosophical and ideological positions. He feels this represents a transition from a loose knit group to a strong institution better able to serve the Black Community.

Mr. Wilson, who is also a Unitarian Universalist minister, affirmed that his organization has never been and is not now anti-Unitarian Universalist, but is pro-Black, a point that was expanded upon by the Reverend Doctor Mwalimu Imara, General President of the Black Humanist Fellowship. Dr. Imara, who is also the senior minister of the prestigious Arlington Street Church in Boston, Massachusetts explained that Black Humanism grows out of the continuing need for the radical affirmation of Blackness. "We cannot and should not immerse ourselves in concepts that deal with the 'universal worth of all mankind' while we still see ourselves as 'worthless niggers'. Nor can we spend a lot of time with formulations concerned with the idea of the 'community of man' if we are unable to build strong Black communities through which our people can realize themselves," he said.

"Presently", he added, "the only communities that most of us Blacks see ourselves a part of are those that have been conceived and designed by White people and are controlled by them. The big lesson of the Sixties came with the realization that the negative view we Blacks have of ourselves was systematically and scientifically developed in us by Whites as part of the system of controlling us. BHF says that we must scientifically free ourselves of self-negating concepts and be involved in an everyday 'religious' belief in ourselves as a unified, creative and productive people. To do this", says Dr. Imara, "we do not have to build elaborate church buildings, nor have church ceremonies and rituals that have no relationship to everyday Black reality."

BAC has been hard at work for nearly six years helping projects designed to bring about the empowerment and unification of the Black Community. Richard Traylor is the BHF General Secretary and the Administrative Secretary of BAC and BIC; he has been responsible for the day to day operations of BAC since its inception in 1968. He is pleased with the assistance the agency has been able to provide indigenous projects throughout the country. Mr. Traylor is unhappy about the schism that culminated in the litigation, but feels that it was incorrect for the dissidents to take an internal political problem into court. "When the dissidents could not carry the votes at the Annual Meeting", he said, "they seemed to feel that their only recourse was the court, when, in fact, their recourse was to continue the struggle for their beliefs within the constructs of the organization. The legal proceedings took their heaviest toll on the projects we were trying to work with."

He added that much precious time and money was lost on a case that "boiled down to the question of whether we were going to remain a small clique of Black people, constantly involved in strategizing to make gains by playing off the weaknesses of the Unitarian Universalist Association (including its racism). Or, on the other hand, whether we were going to move more fully into the Black Movement, and, in terms of the denomination, cultivate support from among those persons whose political heads are screwed on a bit tighter. We can work better with those Whites whose relationships with Black people aren't coming out of debilitating guilt feelings and/or an ethereal concept of a loving and caring interracial community, since neither of these has anything to do with the real world."

Mr. Traylor went on to explain how "difficult it is to get people to deal with the political reality of their 100% White neighborhoods or their 95% Black ones, and the fact that those percentages are not going to change much in the years to come.

Study Reveals Bad Housing Problem

By Gerome Grier

Washington, D.C. -- A two-year housing study has found that 131.1 million low and moderate-income families, about twice as previously suspected, are living in households that are structurally unsound, overcrowded, or too expensive.

The study, conducted by the Harvard-MIT Joint Center for Urban Studies, predicted that 23 million new housing units would be built before 1980, but that it would not be enough to accomodate those described as deprived of housing.

The units would provide living space for people who can pay their own way in the housing market, but additional housing would be needed for the poor. Their needs could be met only by additional units.

Some of the families would be able to improve their lot by moving into the homes vacated by those who take up residence in the 23 million new units, not an uncommon practice as authenticated by the poor who traditionally have had to take what housing was available as the upper strata of society pregressed to the suburbs.

The study made no recommendations, but it showed clearly that no single national housing program could work effectively in all areas of the country.

TAKE LIFE A LITTLE EASIER -- Life now is a little easier for kids with the introduction of the new Rodney Allen Rippy doll from Shindana Toys. The Rodney Rippy doll is the cuddly, stuffed namesake of television's newest star, who has giggled his way into the hearts of many commercial watchers by advising them to "take life a little easier." The Rodney doll says any of ten different phrases at random when kids pull his talking ring. Among them are the real Rodney's now-famous line and his unforgettable laugh, plus eight other sayings -- in his own voice. Measuring 15-1/2-inches tall, the suggested retail price is about $9. Rodney is the newest in the growing line of Black dolls from Shindana Toys, a division of Operation Bootstrap, the nonprofit community self-help organization in South Central Los Angeles. Created for all children, Shindana dolls are the leading line of Black dolls in America and are the only Black-designed dolls with which young Black children can positively identify.

Energy Crisis Plans Should Include Poor

By Eric M. St. John

Washington, D.C. -- Concern over the special heating needs of inner-city Blacks has prompted Harlem's U.S. Congressman to write the President a letter, asking him to include the minority poor, when planning to meet the administration's warning of an energy crisis.

Congressman Charles B. Rangel (D-N.Y.) has called for the Secretaries of Health, Education and Welfare and Housing and Urban Development, as well as the director of the Office Of Economic Opportunity, to be a part of energy crisis planning so that they will have a chance to show the President a need for special planning to assure that the poor are not frozen out by his national policy to meet the energy crisis.

Rangel pointed out that ghetto residents live in older homes and apartment buildings that are heated with "fossil fuels" by older outmoded furnaces. The old furnaces use more fuel than furnances in newer buildings.

Inner city homes and apartment buildings are also more difficult to heat," Rangel said. "Insulation is often poor or nonexistant; ceilings are high and windows are thin, if not broken."

Noting that landlords will not be willing to modernize their heating plants during the crisis, Rangel said they would instead pass the crisis on to their tenants by providing less heat during the cold months which lie ahead. "We cannot allow this to happen," he said.

Reduction of speed limits, lowering thermostats and elimination of outdoor Christmas lighting are some of the sacrifices which the President asked the American people to consider during the alleged crisis. Rangel now wants to know if the poor are also going to be required to "sacrifice their health."

Attempts To Stop Medicare Increase

by Eric M. St. John

Washington, D.C. In response to the cost of Living Council's decision to raise hospotal expenses, which would more than double the rate medicare patien ts had to pay in 1966, a proposal has been introduced which would hold cost down.

Representatives G. William Whitehurst (R-Va) and Donald M. Fraser (D-Minn) are the first Congressmen to offer an alternative to fight CLS's planned 16.6 increase for the medicare Part A hospital insurance deductable. The increase would raise costs to beneficiaries from $72 to $84, more than twice the $40 expected of medicare recipients in 1966.

CLC says it approved the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's request for the increase based on a desire to involve the health service consumer in the economic decision to use hospital resources.

Whitehurst says this reasoning is illogical.

"In effect, the Council is telling medicare people that their use of hospitals is an economic and not a medical decision," Whitehurst explained. "Such reasoning is based on a faulty assumption. It is the physician, and not the patient, who prescribes hospitalization."

The Virginia Congressman also disagrees with the administrations' opinion that the increase would encourage "conscious behavior" in the health system. The only thing is will accomplish is a decease in the limited amount of money on which the elderly must live, he said.

The Whitehurst bill would freeze Part A deductable at $72 throghout 1974. It would also change the present formula for computing increases by changing the base year from 1966 to 1972.

The estimated cost should the legislation be enacted. neighborhoood of $103 would be somewhere in the million.

Wash, Dry, Save

The Department of Consumer Affairs suggests consumers follow instruction booklets and use these suggestions to get the most energy-saving perfomance from their washers and dryers:

.Wait until you have a full load before operating your washer or dryer--but not so full clothes can't circulate freely.

.Use warm water instead of hot whenever possible. A cold rinse is good for removing lint, preventing fading and keeping permanent press items from wrinkling. Keep in mind though that hot water is more effective in killing bacteria.

.Don't overwash--a 10-15 minute wash cycle is recommended for regular clothes five minutes for delicate items; and five to eight minutes for permanent press.

.Follow instructions for using detergents for your style machine. Oversudsing makes the motor work harder.

.If there's a laundry tub next to washer, save hot, sudsy water from wash to clean garden tools, barbecues and other household equipment.

.Remove lint from washer and dryer filters each time used. Clean equipment means cleaner clothes. Clogged filters interrupt water/air circulation and mean higher operating cost.

.Overdrying clothes causes shrinkage, wrinkling and faster wear, and wastes energy. If machine has different settings, use them. An automatic moisture sensor prevents under- or overdrying by stopping dryer when a pre-selected moisture level is reached.

Some Black Leaders Identify With Jews

by Eric M. St. John

Washington, D.C. -- Asking the United States to assure the survival of Israel, some elected Black officials across the country claim identification with the Jewish state's fight for surviyal in the Middle East.

In a "Black Pledge of Solidarity with Israel", 19 Black officials -- including Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles, Rep. Ralph Metcalfe of Illinois, Rep. Charles Rangel of New York and Mayor Jay Cooper of Pritchard, Ala. -- have claimed that their views on the subject represent "missions of Black and White Americans."

No statistics, however, support the claim.

"Out of our background in the struggle for human rights," the statement asserts, "we of the Black community identify with Israel's struggle for survival, as a nation in the Mideast, with our own fight for freedom here in America."

The statement also says that it understands how Jews worldwide feel about Israel, inferring that it is not unlike how Blacks all over the globe feel about Africa.

Noting that the "only" Jewish state in the world has turned a desert into an oasis and a power nation, the statement expresses hope that after the recent Mideast war Israel will live long and prosper...

"All nations of the world, including the Arab nations, must accept the reality that Israel's right as a sovereign state cannot be abridged or weakened and it must have and maintain borders that are viable to assure its security." The drafters of the statement avoided Black public officials in the northeastern section of the country.
